Important information: The shipment of the inverters does not constitute the conclusion of a binding contract. Following a preliminary inspection of the submitted inverters, you will receive an appropriate offer from us. The seller/sender shall bear all transport costs incurred in connection with the shipment and any potential return of the inverters, for example if no agreement can be reached on the purchase price or if the submitted inverters are deemed beyond economical repair. The above-mentioned sender/seller confirms that they are the beneficial and legal owner of the offered devices and are legally entitled to dispose of them. The seller consents to the technical inspection of the devices by qualified personnel. No inspection costs will be charged to the seller/sender. Furthermore, the sender/seller is not entitled to receive the inspection results. Our General Terms and Conditions shall apply.
